Trevor Henson

Trevor Henson graduated with honors in 2007 from Northeastern State University in Tahlequah, Oklahoma and graduated in 2010 from the University Of Tulsa College Of Law. While conducting his undergraduate studies and while in law school, Trevor worked as a contract landman for various Oklahoma oil and gas producers and other industry groups.

Trevor has been designated as a Rising Star in the area of Energy Law by Super Lawyers Magazine.

Trevor's practice is focused on both transactional and litigation related oil and gas matters, mineral management, and general civil litigation. Trevor is admitted to practice in all Oklahoma state courts and the Northern District of Oklahoma. Trevor is originally from Okmulgee, Oklahoma and has many relatives in the Okmulgee and Tulsa areas. Trevor currently lives in Tulsa with his wife Lauren and two daughters, Rayleigh and Molly-Pop. Trevor enjoys spending his spare time fishing, playing basketball, and spending time with his family.
